

*Rent Rhino Ridge River Lodge and Enjoy...
A Million Dollar Big Five View Of The Kruger Park*

Rhino Ridge River Lodge is set high on the edge of the Crocodile River overlooking a breathtaking Kruger Park floodplain frequented by elephants, buffalo, kudu, impala and their associated predators. The setting of this fabulous new lodge offers what is arguably Mjejane's most expansive panoramic view of the Kruger National Park yet. The view stretches from the Berg-en-Dal mountains in the west to beyond Nelmapius's Drift, the old Jock of the Bushveld transport riders' Crocodile River crossing, in the east. To fully appreciate the truth of this statement you have to actually relax on the veranda of this impressive lodge and experience the view for yourself.

Rhino Ridge River Lodge was completed in August of 2017 and subject to availability can be rented in its entirety. Guests staying in this upmarket self catering lodge will have every opportunity to view the Big 5 from the lodge itself.

The picture story below should inspire discerning wildlife enthusiasts to enquire about the possibility of renting this new lodge for their next Big Five bush holiday.

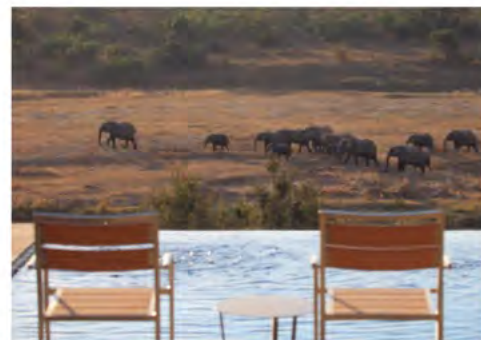

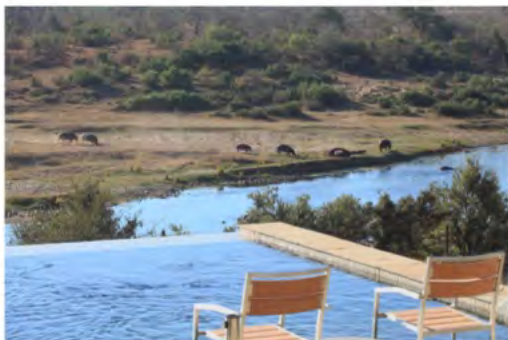

Architecturally Rhino Ridge River Lodge can be described as "modern contemporary bush". The sleek lines encompass a clever architectural design affording three of the five en-suite bedrooms unparalleled Kruger Park views. A stand alone bush suite enjoys its own view to the Kruger.

Numerous patios afford lodge occupants the opportunity of finding a peaceful corner even when a full complement of guests are in residence.

A comfortable open plan living area opens via frameless stack doors to a deep undercover veranda overlooking an infinity pool and the Kruger National Park beyond.

Here's the Rhino Ridge dilemma. You might never want to leave the veranda for a game drive just in case, during your absence, you might miss out on seeing your wild Kruger neighbours come strolling across the floodplain to visit the river for a drink. You might even miss out on seeing a kill! That's Murphy's Bush Law associated with the superb setting of Rhino Ridge River Lodge. To stay or go will be your choice.

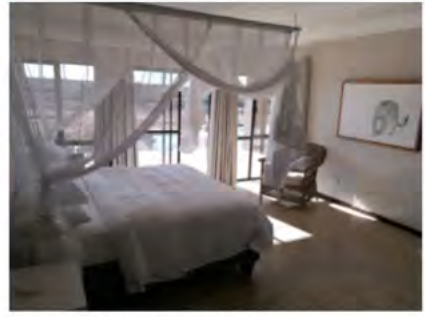

The upstairs veranda provides unbelievable vistas over the river and floodplain. From here you literally look passing fish eagles in the eye and have a bird's eye view of hippos and crocodiles in the river below. Enjoy your ice cold refreshments straight from the pub's fridge while peacefully watching the passing parade or the sun setting over the African bush.

The air conditioned T.V./games room with its reversible snooker/ping pong table is the ideal venue for watching your favorite sports events without disturbing those enjoying the serenity of the riverfront. This room opens into an enclosed lawned courtyard on one side and into the bush on the other.

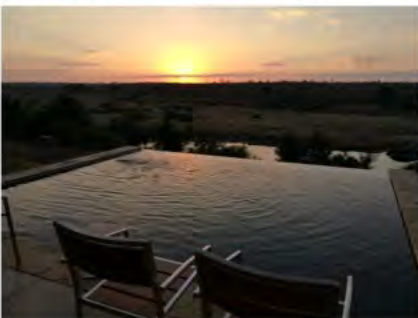

Five spacious air conditioned bedrooms in the lodge are plush and comfortable with en-suite bathrooms and outside showers. The sixth bedroom is in a private stand-alone air conditioned bush suite with its own fully equipped kitchen.

You will be able to hone your culinary bush skills in the lodge's fully equipped kitchen, riverside boma or built-in charcoal barbecue on the undercover veranda.

The Lodge's dedicated FGASA qualified ranger is ready to take you on informative game drives through Big Five territory in the lodge's own open safari vehicle. For safety's sake he will explain game drive rules before every departure. You will be able to enjoy great game viewing, birding, tree spotting and sundowners in Big 5 territory.

At the end of the day put your feet up and enjoy beautiful Lowveld sunsets from the lodge. Talk about going wild in style!

After dark settle back and listen to the nocturnal choruses of the bush. Common participants at Rhino Ridge River Lodge are scops and other owls, water thick-knees, a variety of frogs and stridulating insects as well as honking (and sometimes bellowing) hippos. From time to time these calls are accompanied by the reverberating roars of lions, whooping of hyenas and perhaps even the rasping grunts of a nearby leopard. One is active in the vicinity of the lodge so guests are advised to take particular care after dark. What more could you want to fulfill your dream Big 5 African bush holiday?

The lodge operates on a Friday to Friday calendar. Renting parties must take the entire lodge. Minimum rental rates apply. The minimum rental period is 3 nights out of season but may be longer in peak season.
